USE WITH SMART DEVICES

You can also use smart devices you connect to Noonlight to automatically keep you safe, even if you can't trigger an alarm yourself. For example, you can connect Noonlight to smart smoke detectors, smart home cameras, and leading wearable devices like Apple Watch. Noonlight uses those connected devices to detect when you are in danger and automatically get you help or add critical context to an emergency so you can get the right help. Noonlight can even keep you safe on the road with automatic crash response.

Features of Noonlight

- Silently summon help to your exact location with the tap of a button.
- Save details to your Timeline, like who, when, and where you're meeting, just in case anything happens.
- Add friends to your Safety Network so they can make sure you never go missing.
- Connect Noonlight to other apps and devices for smarter, faster help in an emergency.

Safety Button

Immediate access to a trained, caring agent who is there 24/7 to comfort users in a situation where they potentially feel unsafe and, if needed, dispatch emergency services to their exact location - the user does not need to say or do anything aside from letting go of the button.

The button is simple to use:

Feel unsafe? Open Noonlight and hold the button;

Once you're safe, release the button and enter your 4-digit PIN;

In danger? Release the button and do not enter your PIN. Noonlight will notify police with your exact location and emergency.

Timeline

Are you nervous about meeting someone? Users can add a note to their Timeline just in case anything happens. Noonlight will only share relevant information (e.g. details from their most recent delivery, description of what the user is wearing, their vehicle info) with authorities in the event of an emergency.

Safety Network

Users can add loved ones to their Safety Network who can then request a check-in if they believe the user may be in danger (e.g. the user hasn't responded or returned home). If the user doesn't respond to the check-in, Noonlight will share the user's most recent movements, enabling the loved one to request emergency services on the user's behalf.
